Stone Garage Undergoes Complete Remodeling

George Markell, proprietor of the Stone Garage on Bridge Street has underway the remodeling of his garage.

Mr. Markell is completely remodeling the present building and is cutting an opening at the side of the garage for a side entrance from East Main Street, making the garage much more accessible for traffic from both streets.

He is installing a large Curtis pneumatic hoist, which is capable of handling all makes of passenger cars and trucks. Complete greasing equipment is also being installed, which assures his patrons of the proper greasing on all makes of automobiles. He will feature the Union Stop-Wear method. Union gasoline and oil products are to be carried.

Numerous improvements are being made to the repair shop, including the installation of more modern equipment for the repair of all types of automobiles and trucks.

Special attention will be given to the washing and cleaning service, which will be another feature of the Stone Garage. Patrons are assured that this department will be in charge of a man who is experienced in this type of work.

When Mr. Markell completes the remodeling and installation of new equipment and features, this garage will compare favorably with the service that can be obtained from garages in the larger centers of population.

Mr. Markell took over the Stone Garage about a year ago, having previously been located at the garage at Rainbow Tavern near Soda Springs, and has been steadily improving his property. He has endeavored to give the people of the region first class garage service, and will continue in the future to give them the best possible service in this line.

Skin Test To Be Given At High School

The Nevada County Tuberculosis Association is sponsoring a tuberculin-testing program in the high schools at Truckee, Nevada City and Grass Valley, beginning April 20, to determine how many high school children have been infected with the germ of tuberculosis.

The tuberculin test is a very simple skin test in which a drop of the tuberculin is injected under the top layer skin. It is absolutely harmless, and is a very accurate indicator of whether or not any germs of tuberculosis have entered the body. Those children who react positively to the test showing that the germs have at some time entered their bodies, will be given the opportunity of having an x-ray picture taken of the chest to see whether or not there is any active tuberculosis present in the lungs. The testing and the x-rays will be paid for by the Nevada County Tuberculosis Association with funds made possible by the sale of the Christmas seals. The doctors participating will donate their services for the skin testing.

Only the high schools will be included in the program this year, as young people of that age show more active tuberculosis than the younger groups. However, it may be possible next year to include other age groups in the testing.

Only those children will be tested whose parents or guardians have signed consent blanks and health questionnaires have been distributed in the schools.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Early diagnosis of tuberculosis will prevent a break down into active disease later.

Dr. J. H. Bernard will conduct the skin testing in Truckee.

Garden Program At Wyethia Club Today

The Wyethia Club at their meeting this afternoon at their clubhouse will have a garden program. Mrs. Frank Titus will be in charge of the program. It is planned to discuss the problems confronting gardeners in this locality and to exchange ideas relative to the flowers that will bring the best results. While it is pointed out that there are many flowers which will no grow in this locality due to the short season, yet many of the people who have successful gardens have found considerable variety of flowers that can be grown successfully.

TAX PAYMENT LIMIT ENDS ON MONDAY

Next Monday, April 20th, will be the last day in which to pay county taxes and avoid penalties.

Tax Collector Frank Steel urges all those who have not paid their taxes and cleared their property to do so at once.

LEVEL OF TAHOE WILL GO HIGHER

Marks Of Twelve Years Will Be Surpassed Because Of Wet Season.

Figures released by W. A. Simmonds, weather and lake levels recorder for Nevada Irrigation interests, indicate last winter was the heaviest in the last twelve years and that the level of Lake Tahoe will reach the highest point above sea level in the same period of time.

The winter of 1931-32 referred to in recent years as "the heavy winter" brought 30.43 inches of precipitation while last winter over the same period of time the precipitation amounted to thirty-two inches even.

On account of the unusual rainfall at the beginning of the season the snowfall totaled 266 inches against 392 inches in April of 1932 when the density of the snow at Tahoe City was 46.35 per cent. This year it was slightly less at 40.4 per cent, or eighteen inches of water in 44.4 inches of snow on the ground April 1st.

The level of Lake Tahoe which reached a record low of 6,222.22 feet above sea level on last December 26th to-day stands at 6,223.99 or 1.77 feet higher and Simmonds predicted the lake will raise nearly that much more. It is now practically a foot above the natural rim of the lake.

Funeral Services Held For Ray Powell Friday

Funeral services were held last Friday afternoon in the Odd Fellows Hall for the late Ray Powell.

There was a large attendance of friends at the services.

The Neighbors of Woodcraft, of which Mr. Powell was a member had charge of the services and the Rev. G. W. Emigh of the Methodist Church spoke. The Methodist Church choir sang several selections.

The pall bearers were: C. E. Smith, Dan Smith, Jack Wolert, Glenn Keenan, Earl McKay, Victor Salvatore, Wm. Englehart and Karl Kielhofer.

Interment was made in Odd Fellows Cemetery.

QUARANTINE STATION TO BE ENLARGED

Plans are being completed for the start on May 1st of the remodeling and enlarging of the quarters of the U. S. Quarantine station at the east end of town.

The new enlarged quarters will permit the more efficient and rapid handling of the cars which stop at this point for inspection. It is expected that there will be a big increase of tourist traffic this year.

It will also be possible to handle all cars under cover during inclement weather when the new improvements are completed, which will be much appreciated by the traveling public.

School Wrecking Expected Completed Next Week

The Truckee Outing Club resumed work on the demolishing of the grammar school on Monday and rapid progress is being made. It is expected that the building will be wrecked and the grounds cleared ready for the contractors to start construction on the new building the early part of the coming week.

Some very excellent material has been salvaged from this old building. The club proposes to erect a ski hut on Long Hill and considerable of the material will be given by the club to be used on the ice rink.

A. Bianchi, who is spending the winter months in Winters, visited for several days this week in town. Mr. Bianchi, plans to return and open his watch repair shop the 1st of May.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gelatt have returned from a visit to San Jose.

HAUPTMANN CASE ENDS

Execution of Bruno Hauptmann brings to a close an outstanding chapter of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder case, but, in the view of many California editors, leaves it still open to the widest speculation.

That the whole story of the crime apparently has not been learned was considered regrettable.

Despite a long series of backsets, according to the Burbank Review, "the law in the Hauptmann case has apparently been vindicated. While there are apparently a sprinkling of the people who will continue to doubt the guilt of Hauptmann, it can safely be said that the public sentiment in general was convinced that he had enough to do with the kidnaping and death of the Lindbergh baby to have justified his conviction, and since it was the law of the land, his execution."

"Millions," said the Pasadena Star News, "will continue to believe either that Hauptmann was innocent, or that others were guilty with him. This is deplorable. Evidence was almost wholly circumstantial. Such evidence is never fully satisfactory, particularly in a capital crime. The Hauptmann trial cost the state of New Jersey more than $1,000,000; and yet it is not wholly conclusive that the right man was convicted, or that the convicted man was the only one guilty."

"With Hauptmann dead," remarked the Hanford Daily Sentinel, "the nation may now resume its usual ways with the one worry passed. Let the memory of the kidnap-slayer of the Lindbergh baby be forgotten. For nearly four years the thoughts of that heinous crime have obtruded and persisted like a horrible dream. No one will regret its passing with the death of its cause. There may be those who doubt Hauptmann's guilt. But they are few as compared with those who were convinced of his guilt."

Hauptmann, notes the San Francisco News, was put to death "for an abominable crime. Now, so we say, he has expiated that crime. But, of course, he has not. To expiate means to extinguish guilt by suffering, to make complete satisfaction, to make amends, to atone. This he has not done and could not do. Death has not extinguished guilt, it has not made complete satisfaction for anybody, not even for those who experienced a morbid thrill in the thought of a guilty man burning in the electric chair. And in no sense does Hauptmann's death atone or make amends for the loss of the living Lindbergh baby."

"The Hauptmann case" in the opinion of the Tulare Advance Register "has left America with a distinct bad taste in the mouth, and slightly nauseated at the whole sorry spectacle. Never has there been a more disgraceful travesty of the methods of justice. First, there was the exaggerated showmanship of the trial itself. More attention was paid to drama and histrionic effects, it seems, than to the solemn job of trying a man for one of the most shocking crimes in history. Then the delay, the bickering, the dramatizations in magazines, and the final windup in a maze of politics—these things served to torture unduly the condemned man himself, the public, and the world's opinion of American justice."

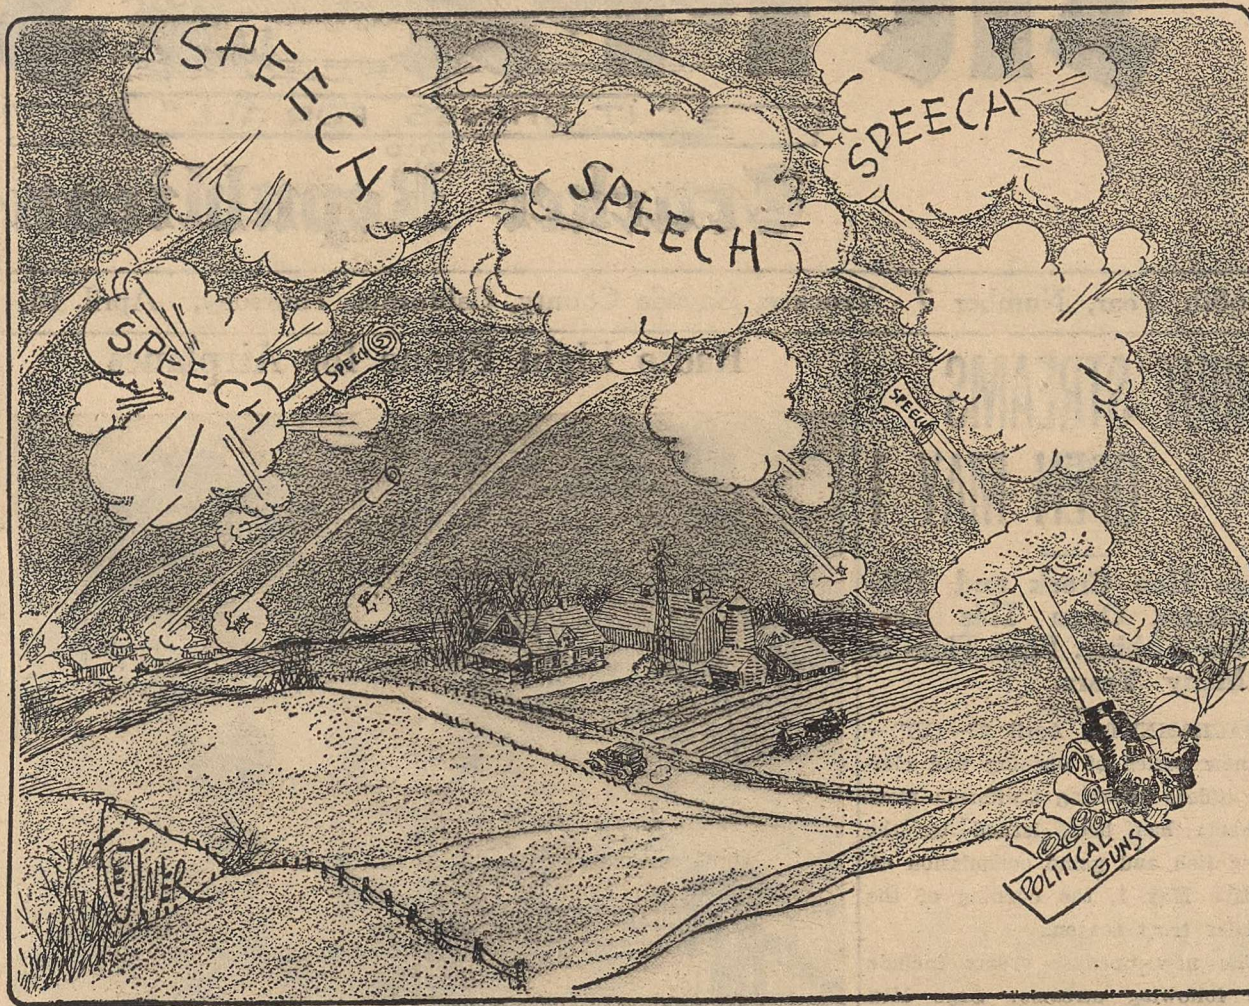

"The chief question which remains unanswered," points out the Eureka Humboldt Standard, "is whether Bruno acted alone or if he had accomplices. That is a question which only Hauptmann or his aids, if any, could have answered. Now Hauptmann's lips are sealed forever. He has carried his secret to the grave. Nevertheless, there remains the hope that some day the entire truth will out and that the mystery will be cleared away. Meantime, those who have followed the tortuous maze of the case will wonder—what next?"

AERIAL FORESTRY

A new, young forest has been discovered on the island of Kauai in the Hawaiian group. CCC workers engaged in building trails on the island came upon an area where no forests existed, according to maps, but where many thousands of young trees were flourishing. The trees were of a variety native to New Zealand, not to Hawaii.

An investigation followed and brought out the fact that in 1929 a United States Army plane, "Bird of Paradise," had scattered tree seeds over the territory. Other treeless regions of the islands were similarly planted from airplanes through cooperation between the Army and Territorial Forestry Board. Then, for some reason the matter was forgotten.

The Battle Is On

Much of Kauai is forested with native trees. This particular forest seems to have been planted by a particularly easy and simple method. Could the same method be used here to speed up planting and supplement other forestation efforts?

BIRD OF THE WATERFALL

The water ouzel, in his rocky home amid foaming waters seldom sees a gun, and of all the singers I like him the best. He is a plainly dressed little bird about the size of a robin, with short, crisp, but rather broad wings, and a tail of moderate length, slanting up, giving him, with his nodding, bobbing manners, a wrenish look. He is usually seen fluttering about in the spray of falls and the rapid cascading portions of the main branches of the rivers. These are his favorite haunts but he is often seen also on comparatively level reaches and occasionally on the shores of mountain lakes, especially at the beginning of winter, when heavy snowfalls sludge. Though not a water bird in structure, he gets his living in the water, and is never seen away from the immediate margin of streams. He dives fearlessly into rough, boiling eddies and rapids to feed at the bottom, flying under water seemingly as easily as in the air. Sometimes he wades in shallow places, thrusting his head under from time to time in a nodding, frisky way that is sure to attract attention. His flight is a cold whirl of wingbeats like that of a partridge, and in going from place to place along his favorite string of rapids he follows the windings of the stream, and usually alights on some rock or snag on the bank or out in the current, or rarely on the dry limb of an overhanging tree, perching like a tree bird when it suits his convenience. He has the oddest, neatest manners imaginable, and all his gestures as he flits about in the wild, dashing waters bespeak the utmost cheerfulness and confidence. He sings both winter and summer in all sorts of weather—a sweet, fluty melody, rather low, and much less keen and accentuated than from the brisk vigor of his movements one would be led to expect.

How romantic and beautiful is the life of this brave little singer on the will mountain streams, building his round, bossy nest of moss by the side of a rapid or fall, where it is sprinkled and kept fresh and green by the spray. No wonder he sings well, since all the air about him is music; every breath he draws is part of a song, and he gets his first music lessons before he is born; for the eggs vibrate in time with the tones of the waterfalls. Bird and stream are inseparable, songful and wild, gentle and strong—the bird ever in danger in the midst of the stream's mad whirlpools, yet seemingly immortal. And so I might go on, writing words, words, words; but to what purpose? Go see him and love him, and through him as through a window look into Nature's warm heart.—From "Our National Parks," by John Muir.

to go out of office (unless he should be re-elected and only Gov. Hiram W. Johnson had that honor bestowed upon him) he can have only two appointments on the board, and his successor can have but two. In that manner, no one governor can dictate to the commission, which serves more independently than many of the state boards and commissions.

The present situation is different than usual because Gov. James Rolph, Jr., died seven months before his term expired. Gov. Frank F. Merriam was able to make an appointment which Rolph ordinarily would have made. Two more next January will give Merriam a majority of appointees on the commission.

DEPENDABLE AS THE BURLINGTON RAILROAD

Politically Speaking

By GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, April 16 —(UP)—

Because of an inadvertent act by the legislative counsel bureau, California voters who mark "X" after the "Yes" on a proposed amendment designed to change the name of the Railroad Commission will be favoring the abolishment of a significant restrictive measure which prevents control of the commission by any one administration.

The amendment will appear on the November ballot. As first introduced in the legislature last year, it merely provided for changing the name of the commission to "Public Service Commission. In preparing the bill and eliminating obsolete provisions, the counsel bureau inadvertently removed the clause which requires that the staggered terms of railroad commissioners be for six years each.

As a result, if the proposal carries, it would be possible for the legislature, overnight, to change the terms to four years, running concurrently, or to make them "at the pleasure of the governor."

Under the present constitutional provision, railroad commissioners' terms are staggered in such manner that no one governor serving four years could gain control of utility corporations. Ordinarily, each governor may make two appointments to the five-member commission at the middle of his term. Just at the end of his term, he may make one or two more. But until he is about mission. His successor, however, if Merriam is not reelected, will have only two appointments to make.

The proposed amendment, in eliminating the six-year provision, would give some future legislature—particularly if it was controlled by the administration—an opportunity to make the public service commission a part of the widespread governmental system under the hand of the governor.

There was no indication that anyone had that thought in mind when the bill was approved. In fact, the legislative counsel bureau took the full blame for the error and was insistent that legislators who backed (Continued on Page 5)

TAHOE REGION NEWS

By Swannee

Easter Sunday at Tahoe was sunny, and glorious, with a steady stream of out of town tourists pouring into the region over the week end. The snow is descending earthward rapidly, although it will be some weeks before the bare ground will be in evidence in most localities out of town to the south. This section received considerably more depth than the town of Tahoe and district to the north, a fact which many local natives find hard to believe, until they make a trip for inspection purposes. From five to seven feet of snow is average in most of this section south of town yet.

Captain Hans Hansen of Rubicon Lodge entertained at one of his famous dinners on Saturday night at his home on the shore. A turkey dinner accompanied by every conceivable delicacy was the order of the evening and was enjoyed by 26 guests. They included Mr. and Mrs. Radford Kiefer, Mrs. W. E. Kiefer, and two daughters Joy and Mary of Sonoma, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heller and daughter Rosalie, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hale and son Frank, Cecil Bowman and son Kenneth, his mother Mrs. W. H. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Marshall, Ed Ward, Mrs. Charles Swanson and son Jimmie and the host. Card games consumed the afternoon hours, prize winners who received colorful Easter baskets filled with eggs including Mrs. Charles Heller, Mrs. Bert Watson, Mrs. W. E. Kiefer and Mrs. H. M. Walker.

Two local men found themselves in the category with General John J. Pershing last week who made the headlines with a speeding charge and fine at Turlock. Harry Johanson of Tahoe on his way to Peace Officer's meeting at Auburn on Thursday was making 65 miles an hour when the sound of a police siren slowed him down. He paid a $5 fine to Judge Smith of Truckee on Monday. Dave Chambers of Chambers Lodge was the other man caught in the toils of the law. Both arrests were made by Traffic Officer Carl C. Kitts of the Truckee division who is making a record during the safety drive now being conducted on highways throughout California. Johanson was the fifth man tagged on Thursday, so motorists are warned not to yield to that temptation of speeding on long straight of ways.

Dick Roschl, proprietor of the Sweet Shop at Les Vagas, accompanied by a party of friends from the East was an interested visitor at Tahoe on Thursday.

The April issue of 'California Postmaster' carries an interesting and comprehensive article on Harry Johanson and his dogteam of Alaska huskies. Postmistress Janet Watson was responsible for the publicity.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pomin and the Misses Ida and Margaret Pomin who have been absent from Tahoe for more than a month, visiting San Diego and points south and San Francisco, have returned home this week. Miss Ida Pomin has recovered from the illness which detained them in the bay city.

Otis Hursey who spent the winter months employed in San Francisco is back again on his route for the summer with Fontana's Laundry of Truckee.

Speed boats were heard on the waters of Tahoe over the Easter week end as beautiful weather and ideal motoring conditions prevailed. An Easter egg hunt was staged above the commons in Tahoe City on Sunday morning for some of the smaller folk of the community, the eggs being colored and secreted by mothers of the town. Mrs. Stella Watson, as is her annual custom, bestowed a bright basket of candy eggs to each of her little charges.

Constable Harry Johanson has been visiting friends at Turlock for several days past.

The beautiful, rustic summer home and furnishings of Mrs. F. E. Miller of Oakland, widow of the late ice cream manufacturer, was reduced to ashes on Friday morning about 7:00 A. M. while neighbors who discovered the flames stood by helplessly unable to extinguish it. No water is turned on as yet due to freezing temperatures and no fire fighting apparatus could be summoned in time to render aid. It was only partly covered by insurance according to available information. The home had been built a year or so ago by Charles Walker, Brockway contractor, and occupied a beautiful spot on top of a hill between Brockway and Cal-Neva. Origin of the fire could not be determined, but it is believed either to have been caused by rats and matches, or by itinerants who may have forced an entrance and occupied the house at night unnoticed.

A most interesting event occurred on Thursday morning last at Tahoe when three crates containing 50 of beautiful little racing pigeons arrived on the morning stage to be released here J. D. Doolittle of the Redwood City Racing Club dispatched the birds with instructions for them to be released at 9:30 exactly. School was dismissed as Mrs. Myrtle Gallinger and her elementary charges made their way in orderly fashion to the end of the Tahoe Mercantile pier for an unusual and thrilling lesson in nature study. Lots were drawn and Miss Helen Worden was the lucky Miss whose lot it was to release the feathered racers. Promptly on time the cages were opened and with a great flurry and whirring the graceful carriers, each marked and numbered, flew into a clustered group, their gray underwings flashing like silver as the morning sunlight caught them in their swerving, circling course. Unerringly they took off, after circling four or five times above the heads of the crowd, for the distant mountains, continuing their graceful, weaving course as far as the eye could see. It is the first event of this kind ever to occur on the shores of the lake. As soon as word is received the number of pigeons arriving home after their trip of approximately 120 miles, it will be made known in the column. The entire town is greatly interested and awaiting word of the outcome.

In Truckee on Wednesday 50 pigeons from the same club were released but only three ever arrived home, many having been killed or incapacitated when they flew against wires and buildings, some even making their way into the depot at Truckee. The object of the stunt was for training purposes and now that Tahoe has proven such a plausible starting place we hope to be favored with more birds for release.

Progress and prosperity appear just around the corner for the Tahoe district, if all the improvements of which I hear take place this summer. Sorry to say for various reasons I am not free to divulge their nature as yet, but a building boom is surely in the offing. It is whispered that Tahoe may even have a full fledged hospital with ambulance service too, but this I cannot as yet confirm. Other important projects I have been requested to refrain from publishing until a little later. All in all, Tahoe is going places this year.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kilner have returned to Homewood for the season after having spent the winter months in Palm Springs where Mr. Kilner conducts a real estate business. He declares that all indications point to a busy and prolific summer season for the lake region.

A letter from Mr. J. C. Doolittle of the Redwood City Racing Pigeon Club on Monday stated that all the birds which were released at Tahoe arrived back at their clubhouse in good order. Part of the birds came in at 5:00 P. M. the same day and the others landed the next day, proving the experiment highly successful.

Mrs. A. M. Anderson of Tahoe City was the recipient of a most unusual and interesting letter recently. It is something novel in letterwriting and consists of a family chain which is started by some member of your family. He writes all the news of the home circle, enclosing snap shots of the children and family that are available, sending it on to a brother or sister who reads it and adds their own news of the hour. On and on it goes gathering the proportions of a young book, each adding a chapter of interest. In Mrs. Anderson's case there are 9 children in the family and a father and mother all living. The letters have traveled all over eastern and western Canada and in the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, taking about three months for the round trip. It affords each family much pleasure to thus keep in regular touch with the relatives and catch glimpses of nieces and nephews they have never seen. Just before the letter is returned to the original sender, the first letter is taken out and the procedure is started all over again. We'd call it a chain letter without an objectionable feature.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Prueso and sons, Donnie, Sherwood and Ray are now occupying their Ward Creek home for the summer season. The boys are attending the local school in town.

Carl Becholdt Jr. was relieved of the cast from his injured foot on Sunday last and is making excellent progress in recuperation. Still using a crutch, it will be some little time before he can bear his weight upon the injured foot.

A. M. Henry Sr. who has been confined to a S. F. hospital following a serious operation is reported still in critical condition. Contrary to expectations he will not return home soon, as his mail and all visitors are being denied him, and letters sent to the University of Another Tahoe resident reported to have been critically ill during the winter months was John Knox who spends his time at Napa when not at Tahoe. At one time he was so ill he was not expected to live, but is reported recovering now.

An unconfirmed report reaching me this morning declares that Mrs. Etta Tyler of Lake Forest, recently widowed, is once again confined to the hospital at Auburn in very serious condition from nervous breakdown and other complications. Ford - FOR ECONOMY

"The Ford V-8 uses less fuel and oil for the power it gives than any other car we have ever made

AND ITS UP-KEEP COST IS THE LOWEST"

ENTHUSIASTIC sales talk often begins and ends with gasoline mileage. Some salesmen would like you to believe it is the whole story of automobile economy. But drivers ought to know better. For, the fact is, it's way down the list.

The big items of car economy are low first cost, low up-keep cost and low depreciation. Savings here can make a great deal of difference in cost per mile. Gasoline mileage is more of a talking point than an economy factor.

Check up and you will find that the difference between 17 and 19 miles a gallon is less than $10 for a whole year's average driving (8400 miles at 18 cents a gallon). Here are the big items that make the Ford the most economical car:

More value for every dollar you pay.

Lower cost for repairs and service.

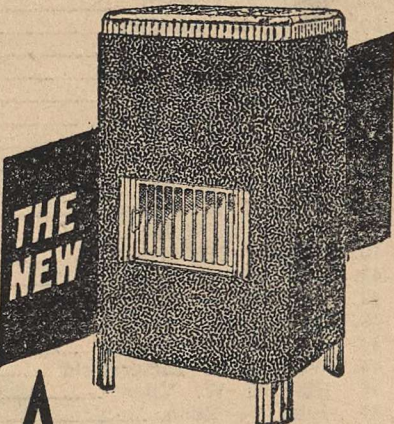

Long life. Slow depreciation.

Quality means economy and the 1936 Ford V-8 gives you more real quality than any other low-price car. No other car under $1645 has a V-8 engine. No other low-price car has Center-Poise Riding, safe, sure mechanical brakes and Safety Glass all around at no extra cost.

With this new, up-to-date heater you have no wood or coal to lug in—no dirt and ashes to shovel out. It operates automatically, giving you full heating comfort, even in the coldest weather. The construction is the most efficient known. Giant size heating surfaces and long fire travel extract more heat before the hot gases reach the chimney.

Come in at your first opportunity to look it over. We have other sizes and models too, at prices that are right.

SUMMER

When Mark Twain said everybody talked about the weather but nobody did anything about it...he didn't know about PALCO BARK. By installing a shielding blanket of it between the ceiling joists in your attic, it will make your home a cool retreat on hot stuffy days of summer. If building new, also put it in the walls between the studs. It keeps interiors as much as 15% cooler in summer.

WINTER

It's mighty convenient to let the modern thermostat do all the furnace work. But automatic heating does cost more to operate. Offset the increased cost by insulating with PALCO BARK and enjoy economy as well as convenience. A shielding blanket of it in the ceiling of your present home will stop most of the heat loss. It's easy to install and you'll be surprised at its moderate cost. Let us give you an estimate.

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, April 19, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God" (I Cor. 1: 18). Other Bible citations will include: "My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous: And he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world" (I John 2: 1, 2).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The atonement of Christ reconciles man to God, not God to man; for the divine Principle of Christ is God, and how can God propitiate Himself? Christ is Truth, which reaches no higher than itself. The source, Christ, Truth, could conciliate fountain can rise no higher than its no nature above his own, derived from the eternal Love. It was therefore Christ's purpose to reconcile man to God, not God to man" (pp. 18, 19).

the bill knew nothing about it. The amended section went through both houses without attracting any outspoken attention, and was noticed only recently as preparations were made to write arguments for and against it for election purposes.

Even if a governor had no control over the legislature and did not desire to change the railroad commission term setup, political observers saw in the proposed change a fine opportunity for a powerful lobby to go to work on the lawmakers.

This was the second innocent-appearing ballot proposal which politicians thought might have wide significance not evident on the surface. The other was the proposed initiative amendment creating an appointive alcoholic beverage commission and changing the four-member board of equalization into a five-member tax commission.

The split in ranks of Townsend supporters threatened to affect the presidential candidacy drive of Congressman John Steven McGroarty.

When McGroarty entered the democratic primary race, he hoped to receive the support of Townsend followers, since he introduced the pension plan to Congress. But the state area board of the Townsend Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., representing Northern California, passed a resolution labelling McGroarty's delegation as "a fake delegation promoted for political reasons only." The board urged Townsendites to ignore the delegation as "having no official recognition or value to the cause."

CHAPTER IX

The Castro ranch house was blazing with light. A party was being held there for the purpose of announcing Rosita's forthcoming marriage.

Don Luis was dancing with his betrothed. His thin face was beaming with happiness, but hers was sad despite her efforts at gaiety.

"Look at my young people," cried Castro, as he watched the couple and swayed his head to the music. "Happiness shines from them. Does it not?"

"Humph!" sniffed Dona Petrona. As Rosita passed her after the music stopped, she stopped the girl and demanded brusquely: "Are you going through with this?"

"Of course I am! Why not?"

"Haven't you any of my blood in your veins?" cried the old lady angrily. Haven't you any courage? You are in love with that American, aren't you?"

"He is a liar and a traitor. And I hate him," Rosita's eyes flashed.

"Pish-posh! He is the man you love and if you were worth your salt you'd go to him, if you had to crawl on your knees."

"But you didn't like him. You hate Americans."

"I'm not your age. They say the brutes make good husbands."

The dispute was interrupted by a guest who came into the room leading Phineas and Pancho.

"Are you Rosita?" asked the latter. "Well we just came to tell you that the devil has accepted your invitation. He's coming to the party tonight."

Her face white and her hands trembling, Rosita slipped away from the crowd to rally her Vigilantes. But for once her frantic messages remained unanswered. Her former followers considered her a traitor to their cause and refused to gather as before.

Desperately the girl dressed in her masculine garb, mounted her white horse and rode forth to rally the clan personally. First she located Gomez, but he flatly refused to call the others.

"They do not trust you, Senorita," he said slowly. "They will not come."

"It isn't just a meeting, Gomez," answered Rosita, almost ready to break into tears. "It's the rancho—our rancho—Kincaid is coming!"

"In that case, Senorita, they will come."

"Go get them, then!" she cried as she set spurs to her horse. "Bring them to the rancho before it is too late."

While Rosita and Gomez were talking, Kincaid and his followers had been approaching the Castro home at a steady trot. They rode in dense formation with their leader and Kearney in front.

"Why're we going in this direction?" asked Jim at last. "You don't expect to find him near the Castro place do you?"

"I thought you said you didn't ask questions," grunted Kincaid as he winked at one of his men who grinned appreciatively. Suddenly he stopped his horse. "Look," he whispered hoarsely.

On top of a little hill not far away could be seen the silhouettes of two horsemen. The bright moonlight showed that one of the horses was white.

"Carlos!" gasped Kearney, as he whirled his horse around and spurred it forward.

"Now's your chance," yelled Kincaid. A moment later a bullet whined past the Federal Agent's head. He ducked, looked back, muttered a curse as he realized that the shot came from behind.

Rosita caught sight of the approaching horseman almost as soon as she had dismissed Gomez. Immediately she spurred her horse in the opposite direction.

When Kearney reached the top of the little hill, he stopped for a moment, at a loss as to which rider to follow. Then the flash of Rosita's white horse gave him the clue and he thundered forward.

Rosita was unhampered by skirts so she rode fast and well, leaning over her mount's neck and urging him forward by every possible means.

Realizing that he was in danger of losing his quarry, Kearney at last jerked his horse back on its haunches, snatched a carbine from its saddle holster, took steady aim and fired.

Far in the distance he saw the white horse stumble, then fall, throwing its rider over its head. With a shout of mingled delight and regret, the American urged his own horse forward until he reached the spot where the supposed Don Carlos had fallen.

Rosita's hat had been thrown off and she now lay in a pool of moonlight one arm under her head as if asleep, with the luxurious dark hair spread out over the ground like an aureole.

His heart beating madly, Kearney leaped from his horse and stooped over the unconscious girl. She did not move. He pressed his ear against her breast but the thump of his own arteries prevented him from discovering whether the girl he loved was alive or dead.

"Rosita!" he cried frantically. (To be continued)

NORDEN NEWS

The snow fields about Norden still held the spotlight for numerous valley and bay city snow enthusiasts over the week end. The warm April sun is doing its best to dispel the snow depths and make way for summer, which seems to the residents as being somewhat slow in arriving.

After five years in Norden, the Harold G. Boomer family have moved this week to their new home in North Sacramento. Mr. Boomer has been given a new pile driver engineer's position with the Southern Pacific Company whose headquarters will be adjacent to Sacramento valley points. While in Norden Mr. Boomer was affiliated with B & B 108 in various positions in addition to being Master of Truckee Lodge F & A. M. and Norden School Trustee, while Mrs. Boomer was prominent among the social set of Norden. During Mr. Boomer's residence in Norden, he was responsible for getting behind many projects which he never relinquished until a successful end was made. Many social functions were tendered the Boomer family when word was known of their plans to leave Norden. The Norden elementary grades paid a personal visit to Alice and Bobby Boomer and wished them success in their new surroundings. The Boomers have many close friends in this community who are loathe to have them leave but wish them a full measure of success in their new position.

Word was received in Norden that Jesse Tilson a former Norden resident, was slugged and robbed last Saturday night in Sacramento. It was necessary for Jesse to have hospital treatment before he could be revived. Later reports are that he is doing as nicely as can be expected.

Mrs. Angie Bealls spent the Easter week end in Sacramento and valley points visiting relatives.

Easter was fittingly observed by the whole of Norden, many motoring to nearby cities to attend churches.

Spring is here judging from the fact that many are busy with the annual clean up and outfitting homes with new floor coverings and furniture. New automobiles are being bought, the latest purchaser being Joseph Copeland of Spruce who has a brand new Ford V-8.

Mr. and Mrs. Double Aye Linn observed Easter among relatives in Turlock.

Elmer Wilson spent several days in Yreka among relatives and has returned to Norden.

Enjoying the valley atmosphere for several days are the Thomas Eversalt family, Joseph Casari and John F. Creasy.

Several Norden residents were in attendance of the Nevada and Placer Co. baseball game in Colfax last Sunday. They were thrilled when Colfax trailing 4 to 3 going into the ninth inning rallied to win the game 5 to 4. The opposing team was Placerville.
